EX-CIA CHIEF SAYS HE WARNED RUSSIA IN 2016

1 Former CIA director John Brennan said that he had seen signs of possible collusion between Moscow and President Donald Trump's 2016 election campaign that merited investigation, and had warned Russia last year about meddling in the election. Brennan, who left as CIA chief when Trump took office in January, said it became clear last summer Russia was trying to interfere in the election, and he warned the head of Russia's FSB security service that such interference would hurt U.S. ties. U.S. intelligence agencies concluded in January that Moscow tried to tilt the election in Trump's favor, including by hacking into the emails of senior Democrats. REUTERS

US, EU MEET ON AVIATION SECURITY

2 U.S. and EU officials meet in Washington this week for further talks on aviation security, as the EU braces for an extension of a cabin ban on large electronic devices to U.S.-bound flights from Europe. The EU has over the last two weeks given the U.S. information about measures taken by the EU to improve security and has raised the safety risks posed by having large numbers of devices with lithium-ion batteries in the hold. The EU fears the United States has already made up its mind to extend the ban on flights from Europe to the United States and has told airports and airlines to be prepared, according to notes from a meeting, seen by Reuters, in which the European Commission debriefed industry representatives and member states on the result of talks with the United States. UBER INADVERTENTLY UNDERPAID NYC DRIVERS

3 Uber Technologies Inc. said on Tuesday it underpaid its New York City drivers for the past two-and-a-half years, an error that could cost the ride-hailing company tens of millions of dollars. Uber generally takes a commission from its drivers after deducting taxes and some fees, but it instead took a higher percentage from its New York City drivers using the full fare before accounting for sales taxes and fees, according to The Wall Street Journal, which first reported the news. Uber usually takes a 25 percent commission from U.S. drivers under a November 2014 nationwide driver agreement, the report said. The company could pay drivers back at least $45 million, averaging at about $900 per driver, the Journal reported. REUTERS

COURT: WIKIPEDIA CAN PURSUE NSA LAWSUIT

5 A federal appeals court Tuesday revived a Wikipedia lawsuit that challenges a U.S. National Security Agency program of mass online surveillance, and claims that the government unconstitutionally invades people's privacy rights. By a 3-0 vote, the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Virginia, said the Wikimedia Foundation, which hosts the Wikipedia online encyclopedia, can pursue a challenge to the government's "Upstream" surveillance program. The decision could make it easier for people to learn whether authorities have spied on them through Upstream, which involves bulk searches of international communications within the internet's "backbone" of cables, switches and routers. Upstream's existence was revealed in leaks by former NSA contractor Edward Snowden in 2013. REUTERS

Boston police amp up concert security after explosion at Ariana Grande show in UK

No specific threats, but department says it is increasing patrols ahead of music festival and other big events.

Boston police are increasing security patrols at concerts here in the wake of a terror attack after an Ariana Grande concert in Manchester, England, on Monday night.

An explosion detonated at the Manchester Arena in an attack that officials are treating as a terror incident. A suicide bomber killed 22 people and injured at least 50.

The Boston Police Department released a statement Monday night saying officials were "closely monitoring the situation with our local, state and federal law enforcement partners."

There are no specific threats in Boston, BPD said, but the department has still "increased patrols at concert venues in and around the city."

This will be a "long-view approach," a police spokesman noted, as there are a few big events on the horizon in Boston.

This weekend in the city is Boston Calling, a three-day music festival that attracted nearly 20,000 people in its inaugural year in 2013 and has only grown in size since.

This year, the event will be held at Allston's Harvard Athletics Complex for the first time. In previous years the festival was held at City Hall Plaza.

"The [security] plans are being re-evaluated and revised as needed for many upcoming events," said Officer James Kenneally.

The Boston Calling website lists prohibited items, including cigarettes, lighters, weapons of any kind, bags larger than 12 inches by 12 inches, laser pens, umbrellas, any container of liquid other than a factory-sealed bottle of water and more.

The co-founders of Boston Calling, Mike Snow and Brian Appel, addressed the attack in a statement.

"We are deeply saddened about the recent tragedy in Manchester, England. Our thoughts are with all of the victims and their families, as well as the performers, crew, producers and the entire Manchester community," they said.

"The safety of our fans remains our No. 1 priority," the statement continued. "We continue to work with Boston, state, Cambridge and MBTA police to take all appropriate steps to ensure our event will be executed in a safe and secure manner for everyone this weekend."

Gov. Charlie Baker spoke to the British consul general Tuesday morning to express his sadness and offer any assistance the state may be able to provide.

"Just another example of why we need to continue to be vigilant as a country and as a community about domestic terrorism," he said, according to State House News Service.

Baker noted that he has three kids in their 20s who would have been at such an event. He reiterated that there is no known threat to Boston.

"People talked all night last night just to be sure there wasn't any concern with respect to a threat here in the commonwealth and there isn't," he said, "but we're taking additional precautions across our public transportation systems and at the airport just to be sure."

Britain raises threat level, braces for risk of more attacks

The UK increased its nationwide security level to 'critical,' meaning another attack could be imminent.

Britain has increased its security threat level to "critical," meaning that another attack could be imminent, following Monday night's suicide bombing that killed 22 people, Prime Minister Theresa May said in a televised statement.

"It is a possibility we cannot ignore that there is a wider group of individuals linked to this attack," May said. "It is now concluded, on the basis of today's investigations, that the threat level should be increased for the time being from severe to critical. A further attack may be imminent."

May said that members of the armed forces would boost security at key sites and military personnel might be deployed at public events such as concerts and sports events.

British police on Tuesday identified the suicide bomber who killed 22 people, including children, in an attack on a crowded concert hall in Manchester, and said they were trying to establish whether he had acted alone or with help from others.

The man suspected of carrying out Britain's deadliest bombing in nearly 12 years was named as Salman Abedi, 22, but police declined to give further details about him.

U.S. security sources, citing British intelligence officials, said he was born in Manchester in 1994 to parents of Libyan origin. He is believed to have traveled by train from London before the attack, they said.

"Our priority, along with the police counter-terrorism network and our security partners, is to continue to establish whether he was acting alone or working as part of a wider network," Manchester Police Chief Constable Ian Hopkins said.

The attacker set off his improvised bomb as crowds streamed out of the Manchester Arena after a pop concert by Ariana Grande, a U.S. singer especially popular with teenage girls.

Islamic State, now being driven from territories in Syria and Iraq by Western-backed armed forces, claimed responsibility for what it called a revenge attack against "crusaders," but there appeared to be contradictions in its account of the operation.

Witnesses related the horror of the blast, which unleashed a stampede just as the concert ended at Europe's largest indoor arena, full to its capacity of 21,000.

"We ran and people were screaming around us and pushing on the stairs to go outside and people were falling down, girls were crying, and we saw these women, being treated by paramedics, having open wounds on their legs ... it was just chaos," said Sebastian Diaz, 19. "It was literally just a minute after it ended, the lights came on and the bomb went off."

A video posted on Twitter showed fans, many of them young, screaming and running from the venue. Dozens of parents frantically searched for their children, posting photos and pleading for information on social media.

Singer Grande, 23, said on Twitter she was devastated: "broken. from the bottom of my heart, i am so so sorry. i don't have words."

The attack was the deadliest in the UK since four British Muslims killed 52 people in suicide bombings on London's transport system in 2005. But it will have reverberations far beyond British shores. REUTERS

Why Viagra Is Failing Men

Soaring demand expected for new scientific advance made just for older men. Works on both men's physical ability and their desire in bed.

By Harlan S. Waxman
Health News Syndicate

New York – If you're like the rest of us guys over 50; you probably already know the truth... Prescription ED pills don't work! Simply getting an erection doesn't fix the problem" says Dr. Bassam Damaj, chief scientific officer at the world famous Innovus Pharma Laboratories.

As we get older, we need more help in bed. Not only does our desire fade; but erections can be soft or feeble, one of the main complaints with prescription pills. Besides, they're expensive... costing as much as $50.00 each

Plus, it does nothing to stimulate your brain to want sex. "I don't care what you take, if you aren't interested in sex, you can't get or keep an erection. It's physiologically impossible," said Dr. Damaj.

JAW-DROPPING CLINICAL PROOF

	Vesele	Baseline
Satisfaction	88.1%	41.4%
Frequency	79.5%	44.9%
Desire	82%	47.9%
Hardness	85.7%	36.2%
Duration	79.5%	35%
Ability to Satisfy	83.3%	44.1%

MADE JUST FOR MEN OVER 50

But now, for the first time ever, there's a pill made just for older men. It's called Vesele®. A new pill that helps you get an erection by stimulating your body and your brainwaves. So Vesele® can work even when nothing else worked before.

The new men's pill is not a drug. It's something completely different

Because you don't need a prescription for Vesele®, sales are exploding. The maker just can't produce enough of it to keep up with demand. Even doctors are having a tough time getting their hands on it. So what's all the fuss about?

WORKS ON YOUR HEAD AND YOUR BODY

The new formula takes on erectile problems with a whole new twist. It doesn't just address the physical problems of getting older; it works on the mental part of sex too. Unlike the expensive prescriptions, the new pill stimulates your sexual brain chemistry as well. Actually helping you regain the passion and burning desire you had for your partner again. So you will want sex with the hunger and stamina of a 25-year-old.

THE BRAIN/ERECTION CONNECTION

Vesele takes off where Viagra® only begins. Thanks to a discovery made by 3 Nobel-Prize winning scientists; Vesele® has become the first ever patented supplement to harden you and your libido. So you regain your desire as well as the ability to act on it.

In a 16-week clinical study; scientists from the U.S.A. joined forces to prove Nitric Oxide's effects on the cardio vascular system. They showed that Nitric Oxide could not only increase your ability to get an erection, it would also work on your brainwaves to stimulate your desire for sex. The results were remarkable and published in the world's most respected medical journals.

THE SCIENCE OF SEX

The study asked men, 45 to 65 years old to take the main ingredient in Vesele® once a day. Then they were instructed not to change the way they eat or exercise but to take Vesele® twice a day. What happened next was remarkable. Virtually every man in the study who took Vesele® twice a day reported a huge difference in their desire for sex. In layman's terms, they were horny again. They also experienced harder erections that lasted for almost 20 minutes. The placebo controlled group (who received sugar pills) mostly saw no difference.

AN UNEXPECTED BONUS: The study results even showed an impressive increase in the energy, brain-power and memory of the participants.

SUPPLY LIMITED BY OVERWHELMING DEMAND

"Once we saw the results we knew we had a game-changer said Dr. Damaj. We get hundreds of calls a day from people begging us for a bottle. It's been crazy. We try to meet the crushing demand for Vesele®."

New men's pill overwhelms your senses with sexual desire as well as firmer, long-lasting erections. There's never been anything like it before.

VESELE® PASSED THE TEST

"As an expert in the development of sexual dysfunction, I've studied the effectiveness of Nitric Oxide on the body and the brain. I'm impressed by the way it increases cerebral and penile blood flow. The result is evident in the creation of Vesele®. It's sure-fire proof that the mind/body connection is unbeatable when achieving and maintaining an erection and the results are remarkable" said Dr. Damaj.

HERE'S WHAT MEN ARE SAYING

- I'm ready to go sexually and mentally.
- More frequent erections in the night (while sleeping) and in the morning.
- I have seen a change in sexual desire.
- Typically take 1 each morning and 1 each night. Great stamina results!
- An increased intensity in orgasms.
- My focus (mental) has really improved... Huge improvement.
- Amazing orgasms!
- I really did notice a great improvement in my ability.

HOW TO GET VESELE®

This is the first official public release of Vesele® since its news release. In order to get the word out about Vesele®, Innovus Pharma is offering special introductory discounts to all who call.

Gardner Museum doubles reward for stolen paintings, but only for a limited time

An empty frame remains where "The Storm on the Sea of Galilee" was once displayed. Picture provided by the FBI showing the empty frames for missing paintings after the theft at the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum. WIKIMEDIA COMMONS

Nearing 30 years after the infamous Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum heist, the search is still on for the missing masterpieces — and now, the reward has been doubled.

The board of trustees of the Boston museum announced Tuesday it is doubling the reward to $10 million from $5 million for information leading to the return of the 13 stolen artworks.

The announcement came a day after the feds arrested a West Virginia man who had offered to sell some of the paintings on Craigslist. He was bluffing about having the paintings and is now charged with wire fraud.

The new reward comes with an expiration date — the offer is only available until midnight Dec. 31, 2017.

"These works of art were purchased by Isabella Stewart Gardner for the 'education and enjoyment of the public forever,'" said Steve Kidder, president of the museum board, in a statement. "It is our fervent hope that by increasing the reward, our resolve is clear that we want the safe return of the works to their rightful place and back in public view."

This isn't the first time the reward has been raised in hopes of recovering the valuable works. The paintings were stolen March 18, 1990, in what is the largest property crime in U.S. history.

In 1997, the museum increased the reward from $1 million to $5, making it the largest private reward in the world, according to the museum.

"Twenty years later, the announcement of a $10 million reward sends a strong message that museum officials are serious about their commitment to bring the works back," the museum said in a statement.

The doubling of the reward was under discussion for a year and approved by the museum's board on Tuesday.

The stolen artworks include works by Vermeer, Rembrandt, Manet and Degas. The 13 missing pieces are worth an estimated $500 million.

Boring: Katy Perry confirms Taylor Swift beef

In a desperate bid for attention, Katy Perry has confirmed her so-called beef with rival Taylor Swift. Yawn.

On last night's "Carpool Karaoke," a somehow very popular segment on "The Late Late Show," the 32-year-old — yes, THIRTY-TWO — told James Corden what you told your mother at age 8: Taylor Swift started it.

"She started it, and it's time for her to finish it," she said. "I tried to talk to her about it, and she wouldn't speak to me... [I got] a full shutdown, and then she writes a song about me ['Bad Blood']. ... That's how you want to deal with it? Karma."

This is getting tired. Katy Perry and Taylor Swift, 27, are too old for this tomfoolery. All I see are two women of privilege who are so bored with their mansions and their money and their fame that the only way to bide their time through this slog we call life is to pick fights with each other over nothing. They're literally mad at each other over backup dancers.

This could also very well be a poorly planned ploy to boost album sales but either way, I'm over it.

What a night.

This season of "The Bachelorette" should be interesting, I guess

Monday night, "The Bachelorette" premiered featuring Rachel Lindsay, the series' first black lead. As a newcomer to the show, I was all like, "Is this for real?" Turns out it is! Here are the most-WTF moments from the premiere.

Adam brought along with him AJ, a voodoo doll missing its pins.

It was really creepy.

Meet the 32nd bachelor, everybody!

Neo-Nazi Richard Spencer is a bad dude. Blake E. is a contestant that talks about his penis a lot and maybe has a sex addiction. Do they look alike? Kind of!

Rachel has her first kiss with Bryan. His whole thing is that he is Colombian and fluent in Spanish, and boy, it's taking him far. I would prefer him to be spending his time with Rachel working through the subjunctive, but hey. Despite being black and named Rachael, I'm not the Bachelorette!

Rachel chooses *NSYNC over Backstreet Boys. WTF?! I mean, maybe it's the right decision. *NSYNC had more hits, but Backstreet Boys have more songs that play in your local grocery store.

I'm saving the absolute worst for last. Lucas is an obnoxious (probably contractual) nightmare. I am very convinced that he will make some woman very unhappy one day, and that woman will not be Rachel.

I've never wanted something so dang badly.

A buddy comedy starring Rihanna and Lupita is all I've ever wanted

Thanks to the magic of Twitter, there's going to be a buddy comedy starring Rihanna and Lupita Nyong'o. Because it's the future, and anything is possible!

According to Jezebel, the movie idea started on Tumblr, migrated to Twitter and its next step is a fully formed film. Ava DuVernay will direct, and Issa Rae of "Insecure" will write. This is some real #blackgirlmagic, OK?

Last year, Twitter user @1800SADGAL noted that in this picture, "Rihanna looks like she scams rich white men and lupita is the computer smart best friend that helps plan the [scams]." The tweet went viral. Rihanna and Lupita agreed — hey, this is a damn fine idea. Ava Duvernay was all, I'm in! Issa Rae was like, I'm writing it now. Things were hypothetically happening!

Now, after an aggressive round of bidding, Netflix has won the rights. I would say let's not get too excited until we have tangible proof, but Ryan Phillippe's thirsty ass already has thrown his hat in the ring, too.

"I'm down to play the rich white [man], jus sayin," he wrote on Twitter.

This is gonna be fun.

Nicki Minaj is dating Nas, apparently

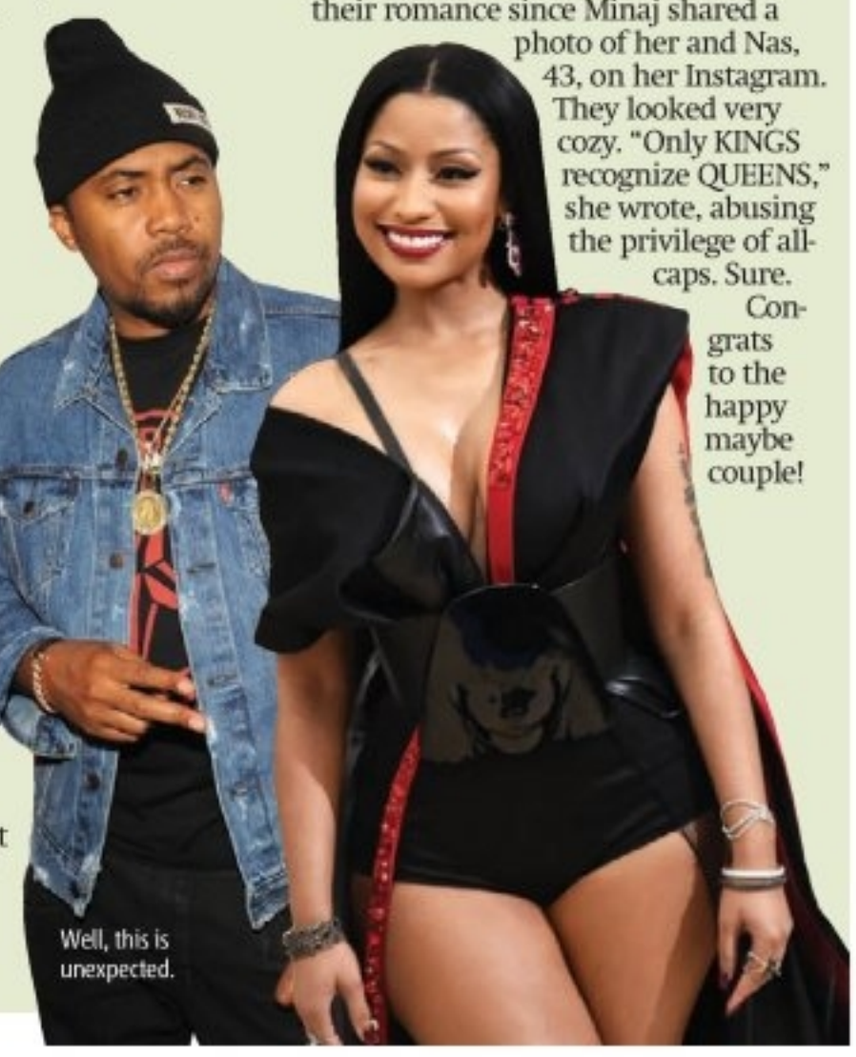
Nicki Minaj appears to be dating — or at the very least having celibate sleepovers with — Nas.

The 34-year-old rapper stopped by "The Ellen DeGeneres Show" to spill on her new relationship. "We're both from Queens," she told Ellen. "He is the King of Queens and I'd like to think I am the Queen of Queens. He is a rap legend. I have a lot of respect for him. And he's cute, too."

Minaj also dished on her plans to stay celibate. Because, I don't even know. No quips. I'm all out of quips and firmly in a place where I just can't. "I'm just chillin' right now," she admitted. "I'm celibate. I wanted to go a year without dating any man. I hate men… I might make an exception to the rule for him 'cause he's so dope." Oh, dear.

Rumors have been flying about their romance since Minaj shared a photo of her and Nas, 43, on her Instagram. They looked very cozy. "Only KINGS recognize QUEENS," she wrote, abusing the privilege of all-caps. Sure.

Congrats to the happy maybe couple!



Well, this is unexpected.

Topher Grace thinks Brad Pitt makes all the best movies now

The actor talks "War Machine" and his love of Bob Odenkirk.

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

Topher Grace plays Matt Little, a press agent who founds himself working Afghanistan in "War Machine," on Netflix this Friday. NETFLIX

Topher Grace has had a crazy career. He could have been Eric Forman, his deadpanning "That '70s Show" everydude, forever. Instead, he's always taken roles that broke away from that type. He was an entitled rich kid druggie in "Traffic." He was a comic book villain in "Spider-Man 3." He was a bureaucratic baddie in "Predators." Now he's in "War Machine," playing Matt Little, a douchey press advisor who winds up in Afghanistan during the Obama presidency. Brad Pitt both produced the satirical comedy and stars as a character based on disgraced Gen. Stanley McChrystal, who was sent to America's other recent big war to sort out the counter-insurgency. What everyone there found was a hot mess not even the mightiest of military brass could fix.

I know you're a big fan of "Mr. Show," Bob Odenkirk and David Cross' classic sketch comedy show. You haven't yourself done a lot of that kind of comedy, apart from hosting "Saturday Night Live" back in 2005.
I remember feeling like, "Oh, I'm not very good at sketch comedy!" [Laughs] It's a real skill. I really gained more respect for people who have it. Like Melissa McCarthy, who can just go in there and nail it. When I was on there I just wound up playing the normal guy in every sketch — the guy who's setting up another character. Which I was totally fine with, because I'm not good at that stuff.

You don't think you can do wacky characters?
No. When I arrived there on the first day, when they read through all the sketches, I realized, "This isn't really my jam." I was on a sitcom, but even there I enjoyed the quieter moments a little more. But if you look at Bob Odenkirk, he's someone who's great at both. I can't even imagine how to do that. In that new "Bob & David" thing [the "Mr. Show" reunion show from Netflix], they did this sketch where Bob's a bible salesman. And he was combining real AMC drama-level stuff with outlandish comedy. My hat's off to anyone who can do both.

GETTY

"War Machine's" funny, too, but not in a wacky way. It's more satirical.
This is a different kind of funny. It's not "ha ha funny." It's "this is happening this week" ironic funny. It's hard to do something like this, an account of what really happened, without humor. But David Michod [the writer/director] had the balls to sugarcoat the pill. That's a great way to get more people to take a look at something they should have more information about. Me included. I kind of remember when Gen. McChrystal was fired, but I didn't know enough about it or about the counter-insurgency.

I always worry movies like "War Machine" won't be seen or even made. It's a big-budget movie that's not about superheroes, and it almost certainly only exists because Brad Pitt took it to Netflix himself.
Brad's really smart. His company is producing all the great films right now, including "Moonlight" and "The Big Short" and "12 Years a Slave." Since we made the film, more actors are going to Netflix. But Brad was smart to do it first. I don't think it would have been made or been seen otherwise. Now it's something you can watch. And it sparks conversation. When I saw it with my representatives and my wife, we all started talking afterwards. It's one of those films.

Quench your thirst for bingeing with these streaming series

Five shows you should be watching.

RACHAEL VAUGHAN CLEMMONS
@MetroBOS
rachael.clemmons@metro.us

There's a lot of great television out there, and new series are constantly popping up (especially from Britain). If you're addicted to TV like the rest of us, there are always more must-see shows for you to add to your never-ending watch list.

Luckily, because there are so many shows, there's something for everyone — from the feel-goods to the critically adored. There is so much to explore outside the mainstream, we're bringing you a guide to five under-the-radar shows for your next binge fest. These overlooked shows may not be new, exactly, but they pack an enjoyable punch.

"CRAZYHEAD" (NETFLIX)

Here's another British show to satisfy your inner Anglophile. From the creator of "Misfits," "Crazyhead" brings women and empowerment to the forefront. Amy (Cara Theobold) discovers she's a seer, with the ability to see demons hiding in plain sight. She reluctantly teams up with Raquel (Susan Wokoma), a hunter who revels in showing said demons who's boss.

Of course, things go terribly wrong. Best friends are accidentally possessed. Raquel uncovers her past — one that is unpleasant to confront. But at the end of the day, these girls kick ass, and watching their friendship blossom is a thing of beauty. It's a modern-day "Buffy" with British sensibilities.

"LOVESICK" (NETFLIX)

Sometimes you don't need a fine wine, because the perfectly reasonable Trader Joe's option will do. That's kind of what "Lovesick" is like. Formerly known as "Scrotal Recall," it follows Dylan (Johnny Flynn), a die-hard romantic, as he goes through a Rolodex of past lovers to tell them about his, uh, STD situation.

Zigzagging between past and present, there are love triangles, broken engagements and impossibly chic condos! And while Dylan sometimes tips into annoying, his friends Evie (Antonia Thomas) and Luke (Daniel Ings) make the ride all the more fun.

The gang's all here on "Lovesick." NETFLIX

"CHEWING GUM" (NETFLIX)

Michaela Coel shines bright as Tracey in "Chewing Gum." NETFLIX

You could easily mistake "Chewing Gum" as the same old ,same old. The series follows Tracey — played gloriously by Michaela Coel, who also writes and directs — a 20-something-year-old virgin stifled by her family's intense religious trappings.

But Tracey's nonstop self-assurance leads her to a variety of shenanigans, including a misguided, Beyonce-inspired seduction. Through it all, Tracey never gives up. And Coel uses the space to slyly eviscerate male entitlement and white privilege while maintaining a positive outlook on sex and sexual liberation.

"MAN SEEKING WOMAN" (FXX, HULU)

If, for some reason, you've always wondered what magical realism looks like from a millennial perspective, "Man Seeking Woman" is for you. For three seasons, the FXX series, followed Josh (Jay Baruchel) on his very bumpy, fantastical quest for love, seasoned with appearances from trolls, sex aliens and in one episode, Santa Claus himself.

The show changed a lot throughout its three-year span, allowing its characters to evolve and grow with it. But it always managed to be a mash up of your favorite romantic comedies with a large helping of some near "Pan's Labyrinth" style terror.

Jay Baruchel gets pensive as Josh in the critically adored "Man Seeking Woman." FX

"FLEABAG" (AMAZON PRIME)

"Fleabag" manages to be both like nothing you've ever seen and very familiar. In the six-episode series, Phoebe Waller-Bridge stars as the titular Fleabag, a woman as antiheroic as she is hilarious.

The series picks up after the death of Fleabag's best friend and explores the often-fragile nature of our relationships: platonic, familial and romantic. And while the show seesaws majestically from hilarious to depressing, the greatest pleasure of all is when Fleabag consults conspiratorially with her audience, breaking the fourth wall — and turning the unlikable-female-character trope on its head.

Celebrate National Wine Day with rosé gummy bears

Try this boozy treat at Lion's Tail.

MATT JUUL
@MetroBOS
letters@metro.us

If you're in the mood for something sweet to celebrate National Wine Day on Thursday, look no further than Lion's Tail.

Located near the luxurious Ink Block apartments, this swanky cocktail bar is breaking out a special menu for the big day. In addition to sipping on various types of vino, guests can try one of Lion's Tail's delicious, homemade rosé gummy bears, which put a boozy twist on the fruity treat.

The wine-filled gummy bears usually cost an additional $3 per glass, but in honor of National Wine Day, the candy concoctions will be complimentary with any purchase of rosé, either inside the bar or on its patio. Lion's Tail will also debut a rotating rosé menu crafted by owner and beverage director Jarek Mountain.

What's better than wine and candy? JACKI SCHROMM

Visitors will be able to sip from a selection of four different wines, ranging from a 2016 Austrian Huber Rosé ($11) to the Italian Sommariva sparkling brut ($13). Hailing from France, glasses of Sasha Lichine Single Blend Rosé ($12) and Lafage Miraflors ($12) will also be available.

If you haven't checked out Lion's Tail yet, it's a pretty awesome addition to the South End scene. Co-owned by Dropkick Murphys' frontman Ken Casey and HGTV star Taniya Nayak, as well as Nayak's husband and local restaurateur, Brian O'Donnell, the bar and restaurant boasts a menu of classic cocktail favorites, plus innovative new creations by Mountain, who previously served as the beverage director for the always-popular Back Bay Harry's.

So if you're still on the search for National Wine Day plans or just a spot to sip rosé this summer, head to Lion's Tail.

A rare opportunity to live at the historic Hotel Vendome

History meets modern living in this Back Bay unit.

JACKIE KOLGRAF
@MetroBOS
letters@metro.us

If you've ever dreamed about truly living among Boston history, here's your chance, as one of the city's most interesting and historic buildings just hit the market.

Located at the corner of Commonwealth Avenue and Dartmouth Street, the Vendome is a visually striking, six-story building with a white facade and a fascinating background. The eastern section of the Vendome, with its notable Mansard roof, was designed by Harvard-educated architect William G. Preston and built in 1871. Added on in 1881, the western section was designed by partners J.F. Ober and R. Rand, giving the building two distinctly unique sides. It was one of the earliest buildings erected in the Back Bay area after the marshy land was filled throughout the 1800s.

Originally a hotel, the Vendome was an early "hot spot" in the city and visited by many notable names in its day. It was even the first commercial building in Boston to feature electric light. Presidents, foreign leaders and authors visiting Boston stayed there throughout the late 1800s and early 1900s, until tragedy struck.

The Vendome reportedly experienced four small fires in the 1960s, but an entire section of it collapsed in what was the most fatal firefighting tragedy in Boston's history to date. The 1972 blaze took the lives of nine Boston firefighters and injured eight, caused by building renovations during the Vendome's transition from a hotel to condominiums. The fire began between the third and fourth floors and caused five stories to collapse.

A one bed, one bathroom apartment is available at the Vendome.

A bronze monument to the firefighters who lost their lives can be found on the Commonwealth Mall across the street from the building.

After the fire, the Vendome underwent extensive renovations and repairs to restore it to the glorious Back Bay building we see today. It's now home to more than 100 residential condominiums, many featuring 11-foot ceilings and decorative fireplaces. Ideally located just steps from Newbury Street, the Esplanade, the Public Garden, Back Bay Station and Copley Square, the Vendome boasts 24/7 doorman service, professional on-site management, plus a newly renovated lobby.

The current unit for sale, apartment 503, is a one bed, one bath with approximately 1,177 square feet and the potential to be turned into a two bed. Oversized south-facing windows give residents a clear view of the John Hancock Tower and the Old South Church. The marble fireplace and parquet floors pay homage to classic Boston and are perfectly married to today's desirable amenities, like a walk-in closet and ample office space. Listed for sale at $1,095,000, the condo is an opportunity to live in a building rich with history while still enjoying modern upgrades.

The historic building has plenty of modern features. ALL PHOTOS NARIN OUN

Local Real Estate Agent Guarantees to Sell Your Boston Area Home or Buy it for Cash

Boston - Every month, thousands of homeowners are faced with the stressful dilemma of whether to buy first or sell first. You see, if you buy before selling, you could run the risk of owning two homes. Or, just as bad, if you sell first, you could end up homeless. It's what insiders in the industry call the Real Estate Catch 22, and it's an extremely anxious position to find yourself in.

This financial and emotional tightrope is one you usually have to walk alone because most agents have no way of helping you with this predicament. But one local realtor is using a unique Guaranteed Sale Program which solves this dilemma. This program guarantees the sale of your present home before you take possession of your new one. If your home doesn't sell in 120 days, they will buy it from you themselves for the previously agreed price ensuring that you never get caught in the Real Estate Catch 22. Before you hire any professional, you should research the market to find out who can do the best job for you. When interviewing agents, find out what kind of guarantee they are willing to give you with respect to the selling of your home. Unfortunately, you'll find that most agents simply cannot make such a guarantee.

To help you learn more about this program and how it can make your move less stressful, a FREE special report has been prepared entitled "How to Avoid Getting Stuck with Two Homes".

To hear a brief recorded message about how to order your FREE copy of this report call toll-free 1- 800-597-1519 and enter 1022. You can call any time, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

FIRE FARRELL?

Memorial Day weekend has always been the unwritten cut-off point for firing your manager in-season. If the Red Sox can't catch fire at Fenway this week against the Rangers and Mariners, then John Farrell will likely be done in Boston.

FOX Sports' Ken Rosenthal has been all over the "Fire Farrell" rumors and cites that one of the reasons the steel-jawed skipper is on the hot seat is because he doesn't defend his own players enough to the media.

That is laughable considering Farrell makes Terry Francona look like Dick Williams when it comes to being a "player's coach."

Expect the rumors to persist. Rosenthal mentioned current bench coach Gary DiSarcina, third base coach Brian Butterfield and former Tigers manager Jim Leyland as potential replacements if Farrell is, indeed, canned.

TWISTED SISTER

Internet gossip site RadarOnline reported last week that Kylie Jenner is trying to steal her sister's boyfriend, Cavaliers big man Tristan Thompson.

The site wrote that Kylie has been sending Thompson "sexy selfies" when Khloe Kardashian's bum ... err, back is turned.

The sisters, I suppose, put an end to that rumor on Sunday during the Celtics' improbable win in Cleveland, as they were sitting side by side during the game. Unless – of course - they've got some sort of kinky deal with Thompson going on … which can't be ruled out.

It's been a tumultuous month for the NBA's current "it couple" as it was reported at the start of the month that the two were ready to break up because Khloe wanted to get married and Thompson did not. Thompson apparently wanted to only focus on the NBA playoffs (go figure).

MATT BURKE

TRADE SEASON COMES EARLY

You better believe that if Danny Ainge gets a good trade proposal for Isaiah Thomas this summer that he'll pull the trigger. With the Celtics in position to draft point guard Markelle Fultz, a trade package of – say – Thomas and next year's Nets pick could land the Celtics just about anything not named LeBron or Steph Curry.

One hurdle that could prohibit Ainge from trading Thomas this summer though is the little guy's current hip injury. Orthopedic hip surgeon Dr. Derek Ochiai told Metro this week that the recovery for Thomas' injury is typically "four and a half months."

Surely, teams that would be interested in trading for Thomas would want to be 100 percent certain he's good to go.

CELEBRATE GOOD TIMES

The good and the bad of the NFL's rule changes.

Bad: Shortening overtime to 10 minutes.

Either eliminate regular season OT altogether or keep it at 15 minutes. Can't wait for tie games each and every week this season.

Good: Relaxing the celebration rules.

I always thought Chad Ochocinco Johnson's celebrations were perfect. They were smart. He once tried to resuscitate a football, giving it "chest" compressions. He once used the pylon as a putter to "putt" the football, and he once proposed to a cheerleader on the sidelines after a touchdown.

Harmless fun.

I draw the line at Joe Horn, who pulled a cell phone out of the goalpost pad to make a call after a touchdown, and Terrell Owens, who went to midfield to dance on the Cowboys' logo multiple times in one game.

Other than that, have at it, kids.

Aries Uncertainty will make you question what you are doing. If you feel emotionally drained, consider your options. A change is all that's needed to improve your life.

Taurus Keep a level head when dealing with partnerships or people trying to get something from you. Strive for equality in order to maintain your integrity and reputation.

Gemini If you take care of your responsibilities first, you'll have more fun later in the day doing the things you've been looking forward to. Timing is everything.

Cancer Spend time with someone who brings out the best in you. Being a team player will bring good results. Your popularity will grow if you reach out and offer help.

Leo Think and do. If you spend too much time talking or trying to iron out your differences with someone, you will not get anything done. Personal gains can be made.

Virgo Take part in what's going on around you. Whether you join a group, get together with your peers or attend a lecture, you will learn from the experience.

Libra Home improvements can be made. A practical approach will help you achieve your goal. Don't hire someone when you can do the work yourself.

Scorpio Taking a day trip with someone you love with will lead to interesting conversations. If you collaborate, good ideas will turn into something concrete.

Sagittarius Listen to what others say, but don't get involved in gossip. Meddling in other people's affairs will result in a backlash that could hurt your reputation.

Capricorn You'll have a good handle on what's doable, so don't listen to someone trying to get you to invest in something that isn't right for you.

Aquarius Keep your thoughts to yourself to avoid getting into an emotionally disruptive discussion. Stay focused on making personal changes that will enhance your well-being.

Pisces Share your feelings, plans and concerns with someone you care about. You will get the comfort and help you are looking for if you are honest and heartfelt. EUGENIA LAST
